Here comes Kenny with a 40- in a plastic sack slung over his sagging back, sucking on a cigarette
When we were young he had so many dreams but now he seems to be slumping into sunset

BettyLu's preparing for the 30th reunion she's been planning since the 25th
She'll be the one to turn out the lights when everyone's gone ... and nobody is left

Downtown there is a boardwalk by the river where no lovers stroll Plywood figures peer from the windows of the buildings
They don't build 'em like that anymore

The freeway exit north of town is buzzing with construction and the messy repercussions of money on the move
You drive the big car to the big box and shop til you drop while you bop to the pop
That they peddle on the radio
